

100 West Fifth Street LL 1030 Tulsa, Oklahoma 74103

RETURN SERVICE REQUESTED NONPROFIT ORG

U.S. Postage

PAID

Tulsa, Oklahoma Permit #2214

LIVING AND DYING IN AMERICA

Three conversations in February 2011

The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice

MEDICAL DILEMMAS OF LIVING AND DYING IN AMERICA

Three important conversations in February 20II convened by the Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice

William W. O' Connor, President Rev. Dr. Bill Crowell, Series Chair and Moderator Nancy Day, Executive Director

LIVING v. DYING: THE COSTS

Most of our healthcare budget goes to patients in their last six months of life. Many patients say that they want to die at home, but that's not the typical scenario. The same technology that sustains us at the end presents enormous ethical challenges. Are there more effective interventions that would cost us less in money and moral grief?

Jeff Alderman, M.D., University of Oklahoma School of Community Medicine Kevin Donovan, M.D., University of Oklahoma School of Community Medicine

> Sunday, February 6 at 2 pm Boston Avenue United Methodist Church, I30I South Boston

A dignified death might mean choosing against treatment. What happens when people stop defining disease as a battleground? Is palliative care a defeat, or another way of responding to the challenge of terminal illness? What does "terminal" mean? Many of us are fearful of pulling the plug on those we love. Where is God in this complicated equation?

WHO CARES & HOW?

Barbara Bilderback, St. Francis Hospice Ron Nofziger, Hillcrest Medical Center Rabbi Anna Berroll, Temple Israel Dr. Mindy McGarrah Sharp, Phillips Theological Seminary Dr. Ziad Sous, Islamic Society of Tulsa

Sunday, February 13 at 2 pm Peace Academy, 4620 South Irvington

MEANING IN THE SHADOWS

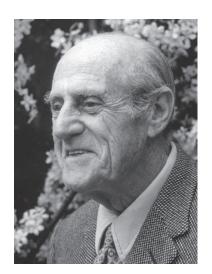

of life, but it must also reckon with the meaning of death. Is this world the end of the line, or is there another domain that opens up at the moment of death? What are our options for leaving a legacy that contributes to the general good? Can death itself be part of a beautiful and fulfilling life?

Rev. Irv Cutter, St. John's Episcopal Church Nuredin Giayash, Peace Academy Father Jack Gleason, Church of the Madalene

Sunday, February 20 at 2 pm Congregation B'nai Emunah, Peoria at Seventeenth Street

The OCCJ Trialogue Series is made possible in part by the Tulsa Library Trust's Alfred E. Aaronson Lecture Series Endowment. The Lecture Series honors Alfred E. Aaronson (1893-1983), who was one of Tulsa's most distinguished citizens and humanitarians. The series was initiated on the occasion of his retirement from the Tulsa City-County Library Commission, the Gilcrease Museum Board, and the Tulsa Community Relations Commission.

The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice

The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice is dedicated to fighting bias, bigotry and racism. OCCJ promotes understanding and respect among all races, religions, and cultures through advocacy, conflict resolution and education.

918. 583.1361 www.occjok.org

All trialogue sessions are free and open to the public. Your contributions to OCCJ are always much appreciated.

The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice