Objective:

This tour is being conducted for middle school and high school students to afford them an opportunity to learn about some of the different religions in Tulsa. No proselytizing is allowed. As the group visits the houses of worship, the clergy will speak to them and answer questions. We hope this experience will help the students understand, appreciate and respect differences in religion.

Transportation:

Each group is responsible for providing its own transportation. Buses and vans are encouraged.

Reservations:

Please call, 918-583-1361, or email jmatthews@occjok.org by November 1st to let us know how many students and adult sponsors from your congregation will be participating. The tour is free of charge.

* Information guide, map and directions for this year's tour will be available on the day of the tour. You may request an advance copy of the information guide by calling the OCCJ office.

** Your cooperation is requested in dressing modestly at the Masjid Al-Salam Mosque.

Women are requested to wear long skirts or loose slacks and a head covering, such as a hat or headscarf. Men and women will enter separately and be seated on the floor.

The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice is a human relations organization dedicated to fighting bias, bigotry and racism in Oklahoma. OCCJ promotes understanding and respect among all races, religions, and cultures through advocacy, conflict resolution and education.
